STEVE SLAWINSKI PUBLISHED IN STATE BAR'S CONSTRUCTION BLOG

Construction lien waivers are an indispensable part of the traditional construction payment process, allowing parties to waive their right to file a lien in exchange for payment. Among these waivers, conditional lien waivers represent a specific type that becomes effective only once payment has been received or certain conditions have been met. However, depending on the circumstances, the risks associated with conditional lien waivers may outweigh any potential benefit. To help navigate this process, Steve Slawinski recently authored an article entitled "Conditional Lien Waivers Under Wisconsin Law – Proceed with Caution," which appeared in the State Bar of Wisconsin's Construction Blog.

STEVE SLAWINSKI AND JOHN GEHRINGER RECOGNIZED IN WISCONSIN LAW JOURNAL'S POWER LIST

Recently, attorneys Steve Slawinski and John Gehringer were named in the Wisconsin Law Journal's Power List for Real Estate and Construction Law Attorneys. See their recognition below.

Steve Slawinski

Steve Slawinski has represented clients in complex construction, business and real estate litigation for more than three decades.

"As a construction litigator, I strive to provide comprehensive, strategic legal representation tailored to the unique challenges of each case," he said.

Most recently, he's worked on complex multi-million-dollar lawsuits arising from failed commercial construction projects located in Charlotte, North Carolina, and in Kansas City, Missouri. He has also litigated cases arising from both public and private construction projects.

"I especially enjoy the investigative aspect of my work, where I get to dive deep into the facts and evidence and see the story develop through the discovery process," he said. "Piecing together the details and building a strong case is both challenging and rewarding."

John Gehringer

O'Neil, Cannon, Hollman, DeJong & Laing S.C.

Construction real estate law is John Gehringer's specialty at O'Neil, Cannon, Hollman, DeJong & Laing – namely, construction and commercial financing, commercial leasing, condominium development and association management issues, planning and zoning and land use. He also has significant experience in environmental matters and brownfields redevelopment.

Gehringer has had many prominent wins throughout the course of his legal career. Two of the most notable are serving as local counsel for an international construction and engineering firm for the development of a $2.2 billion power plant and representing a commercial bank on the syndication, acquisition and closing of a $71 million construction loan for a 17-story Class A office building.
